INTRODUCTION

AndreyWTR token is a digital asset, a type of cryptocurrency, which has a certain value and is stored on the Solana blockchain. The token does not have its own blockchain, it runs on the Solana blockchain. An authorization token, hardware key or crypto token is a user identification device, a hardware or software way of confirming identity. For example, a flash drive with an access key to a licensed program.

It cannot be mined, only bought, sold or exchanged.

The WTR token works on an exchange and on the blockchain in the same way as coins. It stores information about previous transactions, current and previous owners. The token is cryptographically protected and provides secure data storage.
